Dennis and Gross First To File Nomination Papers

Team Represents
Two Local Sections

Edward J. Dennis, 42-year-old union official and Henry Gross, 38, founder of the Westlake special police patrol, today announced they will run as a "team" for the city council, April 8.

Representing both the new and old sections of Daly City, the two men are the first to formally file their nomination papers with the city clerk.

"We filed early to assure voters that this is not just political maneuvering," Dennis explained. "Gross and I are out to win. We want every civic minded citizen to know it."

A native of Daly City, Dennis was a member of the first graduating class of Jefferson high school. For the past 22 years he has been affiliated with the dairy business.

Union Leader
He is president of the Milk Wagon Drivers Union, A.F.L., a position he has held since first elected in 1946.

Dennis is no newcomer to local politics. He was city councilman from 1944 to 1948, a period, he asserts, that was outstanding for its many civic developments.

"Then, as now, I am a firm believer in paying as you go," Dennis said. "I also am certain of the important role of both business and labor in good city government."

Among the many organizations and civic bodies Dennis belongs to are: Daly City Recreation commission; San Francisco Labor council and the Daly City Eagles.

Two Children
He resides at 156 Mateo avenue with his wife and two children, Edward Jr., 13, and Carolyn, 10. Both children attend Jefferson elementary school and Edward Jr. is senior patrol leader of Boy Scout troop No. 84.

Gross
Dennis' running partner, Henry Gross, is especially well known to Westlake district residents. He and his family were among the first to move into Westlake.

POLITICAL LINE-UP FOR COUNCIL RACE

Here is the political line-up for the two vacancies on the city council to be filled at the April 8 election:

Incumbent Edward Mooney running with Joe Verducci.
Edward Dennis running with Henry Gross.

Thomas Tromborg running with Del C. Wilson.
Independent candidates include: Micky DeBernardi and George Wheeler.

Dennis, Gross and Wheeler have formally filed. Papers have been taken out for Mooney and Verducci by Mayor Paul Green. DeBernardi has taken out papers, but not filed.

Bertetta Is Out Of Council Race

Business Obligations
Force Decision

Councilman Fred Bertetta announced today that due to increasing business affairs and other power obligations he will not seek re-election to the City Council.

Bertetta is presently associated with the operations of Joseph L. Castor Company, distributors of Rio Grande Petroleum products in San Francisco and San Mateo counties.

In addition to his responsibilities as councilman, he is clerk of the board of commissioners, North San Mateo Sanitation District, actively engaged in solving sewage disposal problems, a member of the board of directors of the County Community Chest and a member of the San Mateo County Industrial Planning Commission.

Prior to his election to the council in 1948, Bertetta had been a member of the Jefferson elementary school board of trustees which instituted the largest school building program in the history of this area. A former fire commissioner, he is an active member of the Daly City Fire Department and trustee and treasurer of the Widows and Orphans Association of the Daly City Fire Department.

"While it is impossible for me to neglect my duties to my family and business, I shall endeavor to continue to keep an active interest in civic affairs," Bertetta stated. (Continued on Page 2)

"Only The People Are Backing Us" ...Tromborg States

Two Local Men Are Surprise Entries

Thomas A. Tromborg, local master plumber, and Del C. Wilson, 40, real estate agent, announced today they have joined forces in the city council race.

Although Tromborg earlier revealed his intentions, Wilson's name is the newest on the political front. He is a long time resident of Daly City who has been active in promoting jitney service for this area.

Former treasurer for the Edgewood Terrace Civic organization, Wilson resides at 257 Hillside boulevard. He and his wife have one daughter, Kristine, 4.

A veteran of 3½ years in the Navy, Wilson spent most of his time in the Pacific. He was wounded on Guadalcanal, and is a disabled veteran.

Previous to entering the real estate business Wilson was a painting contractor.

No Backing

In making their announcement today, the two men said:

"This team has no political or financial backing. We are in the race to help the people, to remedy a situation we think has gone too far in Daly City. We depend on the people, and the people alone, to back us at the polls and during the pre-election weeks."

Tromborg, a resident of Daly City for the past 35 years and owner-manager of a plumbing shop at 6512 Mission, said this is the first time either he or Wilson have entered politics.

Good To Me

"However, I feel I owe the people something," Tromborg said. "They have been good to me and my family, and perhaps now I can repay them by bringing clean government to Daly City."

Although neither of the men have filed, Tromborg said today they will take out their nomination papers later this week.

Verducci Named Mooney's Partner

Coach Replaces
Ed Whitney

Disqualified by "time," Edmund Whitney, was replaced this week by Joe Verducci, athletic director of San Francisco State college, as Councilman Ed Mooney's running mate in the April 8 city council election.

Whitney, a KCBS writer-producer, has resided in Westlake for the past six months. It was later discovered it is necessary for an aspiring councilman to have lived here at least one year. Whitney, therefore, has been disqualified.

Verducci, 41, is also a Westlake resident, living at 118 Wilshire drive. He is a native of Daly City, and his parents still reside at their 3262 San Jose avenue home.

Crocker Grad

He is a graduate of Crocker elementary school, University of California grid star and former coach at St. Mary's college.

A veteran of World War II, Verducci is married and has two children, Florence, 12 and Diana, 10.

In a formal statement today, Verducci said he had decided to run for he "appreciates the needs and problems of greater Daly City."

Congressional Query Slated

A congressional investigation of the plight of six flooded Broadmoor home owners is in the offing, THE RECORD learned today.

It will be prompted by the residents on Larchmont drive, between 600 and 623, who have refused to make home payments until Stoneson makes good on damage to their flooded homes.

Thomas Jenkins, attorney for the group, told THE RECORD today he had called on Congressman Albert D. Rains (Demo.—Alabama) to investigate the situation. Congressman Rains now heads a special congressional committee investigating Federal Housing Administration loans to builders.

The six residents, majority of whom are veterans, assert the FHA assured them their homes were up to all specifications. However, after sinking their life savings into the purchase of the Broadmoor houses, they find they are "sunk."

Buck Passing

During the past two months they have sought time and time again to get some satisfaction from Stoneson or the FHA. They say they have met with nothing

No Candidates For Colma Council Seats

The political pot is not boiling in Colma this year. There seems to be an utter absence of issues to start a boil with. Though three councilmanic seats will be open on election day, thus far City Clerk E. A. Weisenburger has been approached by no would-be candidates for the filing of nomination papers.

W'lake Zoning Fight Fizzles

Record Learns Councilmen Will Raise Controversial Westlake Area To R-1

Over 224 Westlake residents have virtually won their fight to block commercial development of a half acre of land near Lake Merced on El Portal and Cliffside drive, THE RECORD learned today.

The opinion of city councilmen indicates at least two of the four active councilmen are in favor of re-zoning the area, known as parcel "H," to residential.

None of the councilmen wished to be quoted, although one was emphatic in his support of the 224 home owners who petitioned the city council to up the zoning Monday evening.

"It seems to me there is too much public opposition to warrant any other decision," the official noted. "After all, we must do as the majority desire."

He concluded that he believed the other councilmen, with possibly one exception, were of the same opinion.

The heart of the explosive issue was side stepped at the regular city council meeting Monday night, more at the request of the Westlake residents than any effort of the council.

It was noted the public hearing was to merely designate the lot and block numbers of a general area already set off as commercial in 1948.

Another date will have to be (Continued on Page 2)

Second Cab Co. Tries To Hurdle Council's Doubts

S. F. Man Tries 4 Weeks
To Obtain Franchise

What does it take to open a cab company in Daly City?

James Wooten, San Francisco cabbie and former employee of the Hilltop Cab company, has been trying to get a permit here for over a month. Culmination of his efforts was at the city council meeting Monday night. However, when it was all over he still was uncertain what had happened.

Following is the exchange between Wooten and city councilmen at the regular Monday night meeting:

Councilman Jim Kennedy: As far as I can tell there is no necessity for additional cab service here.

Wooten: But I would operate only during the rush hours when a cab is necessary.

Kennedy: We have examined the books of the Hilltop Cab Company (Daly City has one cab company), and indications are there is not enough business for another company.

Wooten: They (Hilltop) have seven cabs, but they do not operate them all. However, I am willing. (Continued on Page 2)

B'moor. Annexation Suffers Set Back

Group Sees No
Advantage To Move

Possible annexation of Broadmoor to Daly City suffered a set back this week, following a special meeting of interested parties last Monday night.

Gathering at the office of Broadmoor attorney Tom Jenkins, 10 leaders of that community turned thumbs down on any annexation plans.

The fact finding group also decided against the wisdom of incorporating Broadmoor as a separate town.

The status quo is good enough, appeared to be the watch word of the evening.

Jenkins told THE RECORD today that the group in no way represented any official Broadmoor organization.

"We merely gathered to find the facts. We are private citizens intent on doing the best thing for (Continued on Page 2)

Jitney Service Faces Red Tape

Public Hearing
May Be Necessary

Red tape today threatened to strangle the proposed plan for extending jitney service to Daly City.

Del Wilson, proponent of the scheme, notified THE RECORD that a public hearing may be necessary.

He referred to a letter from the Public Utilities Commission, the regulatory body that has the authority to grant or reject the franchise for extending the service to this community. Warren K. Brown, director of transportation, said:

"Undoubtedly, a public hearing would be required and the aforementioned carriers (Municipal Railway system of San Francisco and the Pacific Greyhound lines) would probably appear as protestants."

THE RECORD was unable to find an official of either of these bodies willing to comment today on the possibility of such a hearing.

Meanwhile, a PUC official advised Wilson to obtain a lawyer to fill out the necessary forms for application for a franchise.

"It looks like it is going to be a hard fight, but it will be well worth it," Wilson said. "We certainly are in need of a better transportation system here."

The plan calls for running the hired automobiles from Geneva and Mission to the southerly boundary of Daly City.

LEAP YEAR, 1952

Bachelor Girls' Harvest Time

This is Leap Year. We know that because a glance at the calendar for 1952 shows us that this month, February, has 29 instead of its customary 28 days.

That extra twenty-four hours has given rise to countless jokes at the expense of what is sometimes erroneously referred to as the weaker sex, but which, to those with a taste for more discriminating expression, is called the fair sex, or, as the Romans had it, the "pulchrae puellae," Anglo-Saxonized into "the beautiful girls."

During the Middle Ages cognizance of this extra day in February of Leap Year was taken by lawmakers when they decreed that marriageable women, who otherwise languished under unfair handicaps, should, on this added day of every fourth year, have the privilege of proposing marriage to the men of their own wise selection.

The Scots Knew How

The Scots, as far as history discloses, were the first to try to equalize the sexes in the matter of choosing a life's partner. They, like Scotchmen are wont to do, put it in writing.

In 1288 the people with a burr enacted a law stating that "it is statut and ordaint that during the rein of hir maist blissit Megeste, for il years known as lepe years, il mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estait shall hae liberte to bespeke ye man she likes, albeit he refuses to talk hir to be his lawful wyfe, he shall be mulcted in ye sum am pundis or less, as his estait may be; except and awis gif he can make it appear that he is betrothit anither woman he then established to raise the zoning from commercial to residential.

Council To Back "The 224"

Two Issues

"We recognize there are two separate issues here, and we therefore request the council not to take any action on the re-zoning until a future date," A. H. Altman, spokesman for the group, said.

Mayor Paul Green complied with Altman's wish, declaring a date for a public hearing on the "Parcel H" zoning issue will be set in "the near future."

Meanwhile, the council declared the hearings on the lot and block designation closed.

No Questions

There was not question about the other areas involved, except from residents in the Fairway drive-district who questioned the council as to the bounds of the shopping center. They are worried that with the extension, heavy traffic will be diverted over their streets.

"We shall take this into consideration before reaching any final decision," Mayor Green said. The council is expected to set the date of the "Parcel H" public hearing at their next regular meeting.

Although discussion of the problem was delayed for a future date, a few members of the audience did touch on the basic difficulty.

A Park

A quiet spoken gentleman, who identified himself as Mr. Hall, observed:

"When I purchased my home, which is near the proposed commercial zone, the salesman told me the whole district would be a park. He also noted Mr. Doelger was going to build his home on the property now in question. I can't help but feel I, and my neighbors, have been misled."

A member of the audience then asked the council what plans Doelger has for the land near Lake Merced. The council replied they did not know.

Mel Battye, former city councilman, had another idea. "I think Doelger told Mr. Mooney and Mr. Green and myself that he was going to put in a night club there. That was back in 1948." (Mooney was on the city council at that time.)

Two Ideas

"We have asked Mr. Doelger, but he said he does not know what he intends to do with the land," the mayor replied. "Besides, before he can build a night club the residents would have a chance to object, as we would have to post his intentions in the immediate area."

The city of San Francisco, represented by the junior chamber of commerce, was also heard in objection to the commercial zoning.

S. F. Enters

A spokesman for the chamber said: "Mr. Doelger purchased the land from San Francisco with the understanding it would not be used commercially. We of the chamber wish to keep the Lake Merced district free of commercial areas."

To which the mayor replied: "I understand Mr. Doelger purchased the land without any such provisions."

The west side of Junipero Serra boulevard was represented by Walter Rector, local insurance man. He, too, was in opposition to the commercial status.

"I understand this land is at the north end of the proposed Westlake park. In my estimation it would not be good for any Daly City resident to have a commercial zone so near a public park."

The mayor said this would hardly effect the park, as the commercial area was at least 2,000 feet from the park.

Dennis and Gross

While not busy with the patrol, Gross is employed as a rigging superintendent. He, also, holds a license as a tug boat captain, and is well known in San Francisco waters.

He is a member of many local organizations, including the Daly City Eagles.

Gross resides at 66 Lake Forest drive with his wife and four children: Venita, 16; Leonard, 13; Gary, 10; and Deborah, 2.

ing to take my chance. Besides, I would not be taking business away from them.

Councilman Ed Mooney: Any cab company should give 24 hour service. Can you?

Necessity

Wooten: I'll work when there is a necessity.

Kennedy: Suppose you have a call at 3 o'clock in the morning. You wouldn't be able to service them.

Mayor Paul Green: As I understand it, you don't intend to operate 24 hours a day.

Wooten: I will, if I have to. But you'll have to give me a little time, say a week, to get organized.

Councilman Fred Bertetta: Getting back to the amount of work. Would you say there is enough?

Wooten: I worked for the Hilltop Cab company. I know it is impossible to handle all the traffic. In my case, I would be offering a service to the public.

George Kirchhubel (owner of the Hilltop Cab company): We have two more cabs we could put on the street, but there is no necessity for them.

Cabs

Mooney: How many cabs do you operate during the night?

Kirchhubel: Four. For that matter he can have the night work from midnight to six. We only average about 20 calls during that time.

Wooten: The Hilltop Cab company won't put on extra cabs, because there isn't enough work for the drivers. I know, I worked for them. You have to give the driver enough customers, or he quits.

Station

Kennedy: I believe competition is good, but unless he is prepared to operate 24 hour service, I would deny the permit.

Wooten: I will operate 24 hours.

Green: Where is your station.

Wooten: Mission and Bepler streets.

Mooney: I am inclined to agree, without 24 hour service, he is not prepared to give adequate service. Still, I don't want to see a monopoly.

Wooten: I will give the 24 hour service, if necessary.

Requires

Green: The council requires you guarantee 24 hour service; give us a written permission from the owner at Mission and Bepler that he will allow you to use his premises for a cab office; and assurance you can be reached by customers 24 hours a day.

Wooten: I will do all those things.

At this point the hearing ended, with Wooten apparently made to understand he must appear at the next council meeting, February 25, to hear the council's final decision.

After the meeting Councilman Bertetta observed that the council probably will grant Wooten the permit.

"Our only fear is that he will turn around and sell the franchise," Bertetta said.

Mrs. Helen Cheatham, member of the audience, came up with a solution for that: "Why not give him the permit on a 90 day trial basis? You can then tell whether or not he will make a go of the cab business."

Councilman Bertetta indicated the council would take this under consideration.

Meanwhile, after four weeks of pleading, Wooten is still uncertain today whether or not he will get a permit.

Judge Sweeney Fines Man On Check Charge

George A. Schauer, when arraigned in the local police court Friday morning, pleaded guilty to six counts of passing worthless checks and was fined $50 by Judge William Sweeney.

The charges grew out of Schauer's cashing a total of $120 in checks which the bank on which they were drawn refused to honor. William Lonich of Tiny's tavern, 6045 Mission street, preferred the charges. Restitution was made and Mr. Lonich did not desire to press the charges. However, the district attorney's office refused to drop them entirely, accepting the lesser charge of petty theft, a misdemeanor.

the community."

Special Meet

He added his group will present their findings at a meeting of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association to be held early this spring.

Still to be heard from is Claude Hanrahan, and his group, who are the leaders in the fight for annexation. However, Hanrahan is expected to put up a stiff battle for joining Daly City.

Reasons

Following are the reasons given by the fact finding committee for holding the status quo line:

1. Broadmoor now has better police protection than the newest addition to Daly City, Westlake. Nothing could be offered by Daly City to offset this fine protection.

2. Should Broadmoor join Daly City the fire rates on insurance would remain the same. The present fire district compares favorably with anything Daly City could offer.

3. Water rates would not be lower, as residents would be forced to purchase the California Water Company system in order to pipe in cheaper Daly City water. This would mean a stiff bond issue, and corresponding higher rates.

4. Taxes might be higher should Broadmoor join Daly City. Looking at the proposed plans for Westlake improvements and more bond issues for the Community Center building, the Broadmoor group can visualize nothing but higher taxes for Daly City.

Those present at the meeting, including Jenkins, were: Jim McKay, John Bell, John Travinsky, Larry Baker, Bob Williams, Val Olson, Ralph Raymond and A. L. Bechtold.

ed. "I have always been active in community progress and development. Much has been accomplished in the past four years. However, with our tremendous growth we find ourselves faced with more problems requiring needed attention."

"I would like to take this opportunity to sincerely express my thanks and appreciation for the splendid support and cooperation given to me by the people of Daly City. In the event that they feel that my experience could benefit them in any way I want them to feel free to call upon me."

Bertetta makes his home with his wife and two children at 10 Wilshire Court, Daly City.

San Francisco Bank, West Portal branch, told THE RECORD he is still uncertain what action the bank will take to force the home owners to make payment. The bank now holds the loans on the six homes.

Attorneys for the bank, Maddux, Kiernan and Jones, had little or no comment.

"The whole matter is now under consideration," Joseph Kiernan said.

Do Nothing

He indicated, however, this was a matter in which the bank could do nothing, and the final decision must be that of the FHA.

Meanwhile, the distressed residents this week took issue with a Stoneson representative who said the company had built a cement retaining wall behind the flooded homes.

"That wall is a long ways off, and isn't doing us a bit of good. Our trouble stems from the ditch he dug behind the houses. It carries water right into my front room," Arthur Nelson, 623 Larchmont drive, said.

Stoneson could not be reached for comment, today.

shall be free."

That word "muted" must have undergone a terrific change in meaning since 1288, for it seems that it was a lawful thing to "mulet" an unwilling bachelor. Today we don't say that our modern Broadway gold diggers "mulet" the unsuspecting playboys of Mazda lamp lane—"lepe yeare" or no—we merely shrug an indifferent shoulder and say "She took him for plenty."

France passed a law similar to the Scotch in the fifteenth century and this was soon followed by like measures in Genoa and Florence.

Who Leaps In Leap Year?

The tradition which holds that during Leap Year women are privileged to do the wooing probably antedates even the law passed by Scotland in the thirteenth century. However, while much fun has resulted from it, no creditable proof of its place or date of origin has thus far been advanced.

Suffice it to say that any custom so universally recognized has the force of law. Less widely recognized practices have acquired the power of the so-called unwritten law.

Some students of the obscure and pristine beliefs of man have come up with an explanation for the naming of every fourth year as "Leap" from the fact that the incorrigible, intractable and irreclaimable bachelor leaps when some predatory female, not on bended knee and in a voice of supplication but with a firmly erect stance, in stern language and with a pair handcuffs, declares "Come be my lawful, wedded husband."

Our Girls Have Finesse

But whatever the practice might have been among other nations and in other times, anybody with half an eye for observing the passing scene knows that the American woman approaches the problem of leading to the altar her choice of husband with more finesse and greater regard for the delicate sensibilities of the brawny sex which has lulled itself into the flattery that it is the sole arbiter of its matrimonial destiny.

Wow! Ain't that some sentence?

Of course, not all of us men are such easy marks or so devoid of masculine strength of character to fall prey to the wiles of some designing female. Some of us do our own choosing—and proposing.

I am sure this writer did just that. His wife was simply swept off her feet by his masterfulness.

Daly City Band In Need Of Musicians

The Daly City Band, under the sponsorship of the local recreation department, is in pressing need of musicians for all the instruments, according to an announcement made by Band Master George E. Brenner.

A strong appeal for musicians is made in an advertisement on another page of THE RECORD for those who can play the clarinet, flute, trumpet, trombone, saxophone, french horn, and the drums.

The band has been in existence for 25 years and during that time has made numerous appearances in Daly City and the entire Bay Area at various public functions and patriotic celebrations. It has won first prize for Northern California's parade bands.

Musicians Drained

The Daly City Band has lost many of its musicians to the armed forces, which are still drawing on local musical talent. It is to fill vacancies thus created that Band Master Brenner is making his current appeal. He feels sure there are many musicians in and around Daly City who, if they know the opportunities of musicianship in the local band, will volunteer to put their abilities to this worthy cause.

Rehearsals are held every Tuesday evening at Community Center, Oliver street and Bellevue avenue, Daly City.

Daly City Pet Shop Under New Owner

The Daly City Pet Shop, 6277 Mission street, last Friday, February 8, changed management when Mrs. Laura Coleman, a Daly City citizen of 25 years residence, took over from the former owner.

The renovated store has been restocked with singing and breeding canaries and a collection of budgies in the feathered family. Mrs. Coleman also has in stock Australian toy shepherd seven-week old puppies and fox terriers and bull dogs.

The shop offers a selection of tropical and gold fish, too. New plastic cages have been added for bird housing.

Judge Bocci Commends PTAs

Judge Thomas Bocci today commended the mothers of the Parent-Teacher associations who gave so generously of their time to assure the success of the March of Dimes in Daly City.

He said it was gratifying to know the mothers of Northern San Mateo county realize the value of the great movement to save lives and restore health to polio victims.

"I congratulate these women, who through the March of Mothers, gave so freely of their effort and time to a really great organization," Bocci said.

He also praised the thousands of local residents who donated their dimes and dollars to this year's March of Dimes.

Two Elective Jobs To Be Uncontested

Two city elective positions are expected to be a one man affair this year.

City Clerk B. C. Ross, who has held this position for the past 25 years, will seek re-election. To date no one had taken out nomination papers for the job.

City Treasurer Paul Selmi, who finishes his first four years April 8, is also expected to go unopposed. He has definitely announced he will seek re-election.

BROADMOOR SITUATION NEEDS INVESTIGATING

Several Broadmoor residents these days are getting the old "one, two, three, pass the buck" routine.

They have had the courage to assert their rights, to demand restitution for flood damage done their homes. Trouble is, no one seems ready to listen.

The Stoneson Corporation, if it is at fault, has made no effort to answer the six residents on Larchmont drive whose homes were so badly hit by the recent heavy rains. These people, most of whom are veterans with one or two children, purchased their houses in good faith. THE RECORD believes Stoneson might reciprocate, or can it be the builder feels no responsibility?

As for the Federal Housing Administration, underwriters of the loans, they are acting with typical government efficiency. THE RECORD has received the stock answer: "Everything seems to be going all right." This is said in the face of numerous protests that everything is far from right.

These flood soaked veterans once gave their all for the government. And how does that same government thank them? First, through the FHA, it assures them their home purchase is A-1, up to all specifications. Second, when this proves false, the FHA refuses to recognize the trouble. After all, the FHA just can't make mistakes...especially in an election year.

CONGRATULATIONS TO WESTLAKE RESIDENTS

Congratulations to the scores of Westlake residents, aided by other Daly City home owners, who helped to pack the city council chambers Monday.

THE RECORD is sure this is a sign of a long needed awakening of public spirit.

Just what can be accomplished was demonstrated by the large Westlake turnout. The final Shifting the buck once more, Stoneson and the FHA say the San Mateo county engineering department should be consulted. M. A. Grant, county engineer, observes it is up to the home builder to assure proper drainage, not the county. THE RECORD believes he is right. After all, the county can not underwrite the mistakes of every local builder.

Is it little wonder, then, that these home owners are dismayed, bewildered and hopping mad. In a last desperate effort they refused to make their house payments, but THE RECORD learned this week the San Francisco bank is not in a position to back them. Nor should the bank be responsible...this is hardly their fight.

No, the whole trouble gets back to the FHA and the Stoneson Corporation.

Fortunately, we have learned that the government has appointed a committee, under Congressman Albert D. Rains (Democrat, Alabama) to investigate the activities of the FHA in regards to making loans to private builders.

Perhaps Congressman Rains will be of some assistance to the forgotten Broadmoor veterans. Tom Jenkins, attorney for the distressed home owners, has already notified Congressman Rains of the local situation.

We hope the congressman will end this buck passing, will come up with an answer, one way or another, for the Broadmoor residents.

results are not in, but from what THE RECORD has been able to learn it appears that the residents did not waste their time.

Perhaps, the "old timers" here will take encouragement from the "youngsters." All is not lost...in fact, this city is just beginning to wake up.

THE TRUTH BEHIND BROADMOOR ANNEXATION

As Spring follows Winter so does the question of Broadmoor joining Daly City pop up each year.

New impetus was given the favorite Broadmoor cracker barrel topic this year with several pro-annexation leaders taking the field to champion their favorite cause. And right there to beat them down were the anti-Daly City forces.

It is too early to say who has won, but odds are about four to one in favor of the anti-annexation army.

A variety of reasons are given both for joining or steering clear of Daly City. THE RECORD believes there is something to be said for both sides, although we may be naturally biased in favor of annexation. We welcome Broadmoor, but the final decision must be up to those living in Broadmoor.

What are the real reasons for the cold shoulder from the west? Some say taxes, others say it just won't pay.

WATCH THE UPPED ASSESSMENT SITUATION

So you think taxes are high...wait until next year.

Men in the know assert the average Daly City taxpayer will find himself shelling out from 20 to 40 per cent more in property taxes alone.

This dim view stems from a recent 50 per cent across the board increase in all San Mateo county property assessments. The increase was ordered by the state board of equalization to bring the county assessments up to the state average. For once, no blame can be put on county officials.

However, the end result spells nothing but a holiday for officials with one hand in the public's pocket. This is the key to jamming both hands into all but empty wallet.

Just what does the upped assessment mean? In simple words, it allows the city and county, as well as school boards, to hold the tax rate at the present level, but at the same time collect almost double the revenue.

It is bad enough to hold the tax rate where it is, but things are going to get worse when this levy is upped.

Consequently, it is up to each and every taxpayer to keep an eagle eye on the county, city and school district budgets this year. Each time the tax rate is upped, coupled with the increased valuation, the property owner is going to find himself short changed.

THE RECORD believes, for the most part, that the simple increased valuations should meet the needs of increased government costs this year. There is definitely no reason for upping tax rates...with possibly one or two exceptions.

THE RECORD will publicize the city, county and school district budgets. If we believe they are too high, we shall say so in no uncertain terms.

But from there on, it is up to the taxpayers to carry the ball. And if they refuse to accept this responsibility they may find that same ball chained around their ankles pulling them down under an ever increasing tax load.

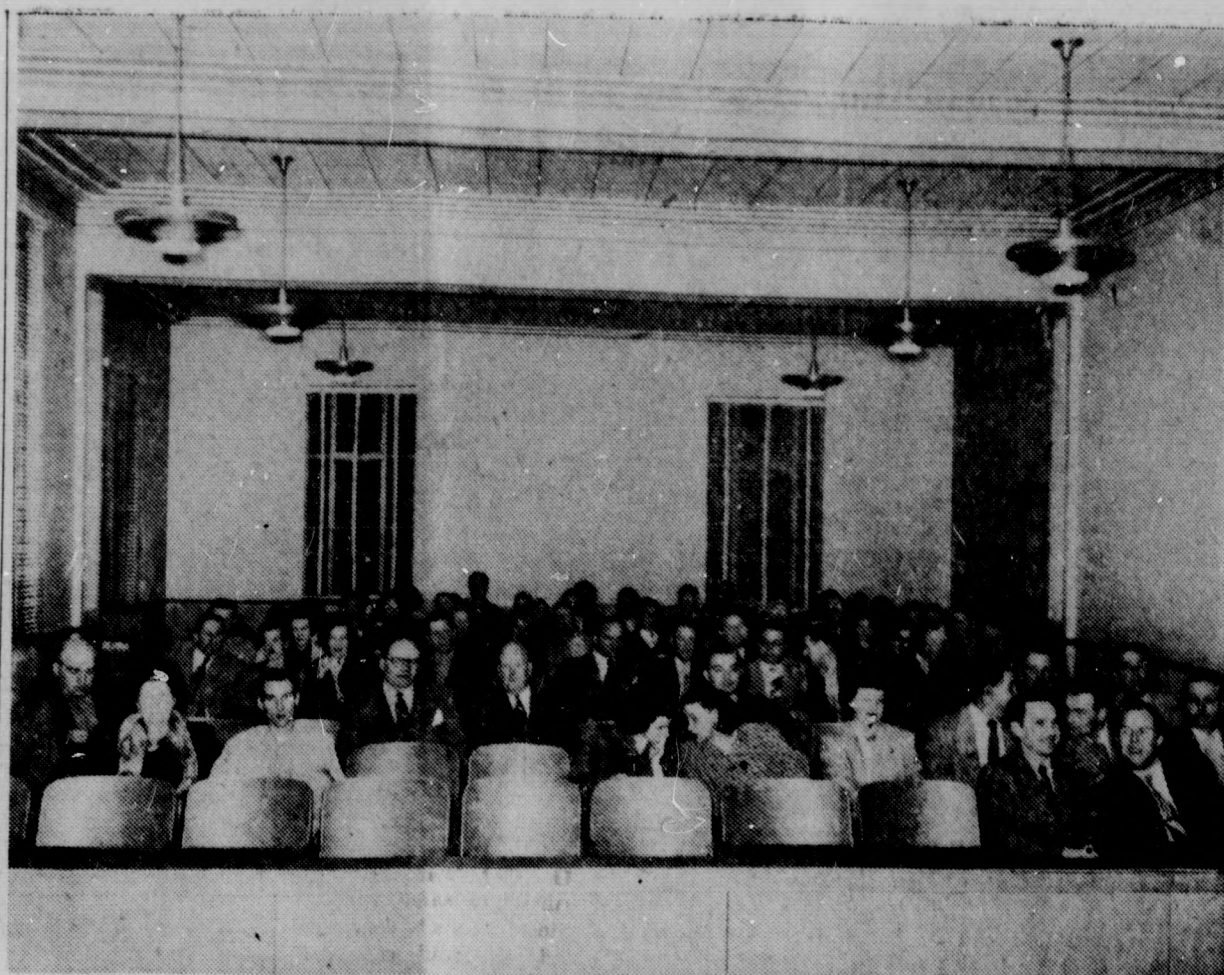

PARKING METER FRUSTRATES MAIL BOX

A parking meter is doing a neat job of frustrating would be users of the courtesy curb service mail box in front of the Colma post office.

The box is so situated that the back end of a car, parked in the meter zone, juts out almost in front of the box slot. It takes an acrobat to post his letter and escape without creasing a fender.

THE RECORD believes this situation can be remedied by moving the parking meter. We urge immediate action, before some maddened driver takes out the meter with his front bumper.

ALMOST COMPLETELY FILLED MONDAY NIGHT was the council chamber in city hall. The largest turnout in two years is an indication that at long last residents are waking up to the responsibility of government. (Photo by Pat Corner)

THE CURRENT SCENE

By Cas Glowacki

Nations which have permitted their military heroes to assume the reigns of the civil government have invariably fallen from whatever heights of world importance they had acquired under civilian rule.

That, at first glance, appears like a broad, untenable assertion. It IS broad, intentionally so. It is not, however, as untenable as it might at first seem. History is replete with supporting proof. Let us glance at the record written by those nations which have in the past permitted their hero worship to get the better of their judgment and which have allowed the military caste to arrogate civilian government unto itself.

Let's start with Cyrus the Great, conqueror of a lesser and earlier Babylon and founder of that storied empire which was perhaps the mightiest nation before Christ.

Cyrus came upon the scene as king when he freed his people as a successful general in battles against Media in 539 B.C. Also as a triumphant general he continued until he vanquished Babylon and established his seat of government there.

And, like all military men before and after him, he did not know when to stop. He was not satisfied that his Persian empire stretched over the Pontic and Armenian mountains and as far as the Caucasus. That he was lord over Egypt and Lydia and dictated Sparta's policy did not satiate this military genius.

Of course, like his modern counterparts, Stalin and Hitler, he never conquered any nation out of mere wanton desire for possession of that which did not rightly belong in his sphere of government. He, like our moderns, undertook wars only to gain strong natural (sic) frontiers. He made war on his recalcitrant neighbors merely because they were so barbarous (sic) that they wanted to keep their own form of national existence.

He named himself "King of Babylon and king of the countries"—the latter meaning, actually, king of the world. But the foundation of this vast empire was built on the quicksands of civil-ian, not military people. It took a mere few years to disclose the gaping holes in the government which "General" Cyrus built so that he might call himself "king."

His son-in-law and successor, Xerxes, reaped the harvest of his illustrious predecessor's military successes and governmental blunders.

Xerxes was having trouble with the Egyptians, previously conquered by Cyrus. He suppressed their rebellion and, as Herodotus, the Greek historian points out, he "brought Egypt under a much heavier yoke than it had been before."

And this doughty warrior and descendant of unconquerable warriors was finally defeated by a non-military nation, by an army and navy of citizens, the Greeks. Victory after victory against the Greeks until they had to retreat to the Isthmus of Corinth and the Bay of Salamis was a heady wine for Xerxes. He over-reached himself, like military men are wont to do. His good military judgment forsook him at the battle of Salamis and, under unfavorable conditions, he lost to the Hellenes on September 28, 480 B.C. A makeshift navy defeated Xerxes in spite of his vast professional military preparations.

And that was curtains for Xerxes and the fabulous Babylonian empire. The latter died a slow, lingering death of languid torpor. Military success stopping, a nation has little left when that no longer continues to maintain its hysterical enthusiasm.

And what happened to Rome—after all roads and all triumphant armies marched to Rome?

Rome was great only so long as a civilian senate governed it. Later the people of Rome, against the clarion warnings of Cicero and other wise civilian counselors, permitted their generals to take over the reigns of civilian government. When Roman emperors were synonymous with Roman generals then Rome's demise was inevitable.

So long as the greatest honor which could be accorded a Roman was to call him "citizen," thus long was Rome great. Why, St. Paul escaped crucifixion only because he was a Roman citizen, albeit a Jewish one.

Then came Caesar and his general-successors. And Roman military triumphs sounded the funeral dirge of a great government. Rome gradually disintegrated under the misrule of military heroes. What happened to Spain after the might of her "Invincible (sic) Armada" was destroyed by English naval amateurs in 1588? Again a great nation declined because its military men had got too prominent a place in its government.

Frederick the Great's father, Frederick William I, established the first professional standing army in Europe. His son carried on that innovation and his military men developed a strong army in exchange for a deciding voice in his government.

Result? Germany became a military nation for 200 years. This led to what some of us have witnessed in our own lifetime—the German military overstepped themselves twice and twice Germany was defeated by nations which were NOT military.

It seems to be in the nature of the military mind that it is incapable of understanding free, independent men. Military brass never persuades, asks or informs. It commands. It can't or won't understand anybody who asks "Why?"

George Washington was a successful military general. But, he was first and last an engineer and farmer. He warned his country against permitting the military a voice in civilian government. He supported the Colonial Congress which injected into the Constitution safeguards against military usurpation of civilian governmental power.

General Grant was a great soldier, nobody will deny that. He was a noble man, an unquestioned patriot. But, as a president, he was slightly less than scintillating. He just didn't know his way around in civilian government. The poor man did not belong in the White House. He was a sadly confused person. His country would have done well to retire him on a liberal pension. His country did General Grant a disservice when it elected him president.

We can't blame him for what happened in Washington during his administrations. But we must recognize, at least, that the economic rape of the South took place during Grant's occupancy of the White House. He just couldn't cope with avariciously shrewd and unconscionable private interests. Grant was merely another successful military genius who was an unhappy failure in civil government.

We are not here impugning the validity of the presidential candidacy of any military hero of World War II.

But we DO repeat that history bears us out that civilians should jealously guard their government from being usurped by the military caste.

Burkett Enters GOP Contest

Entry of former federal T-man William Burkett into the Republican race for Congress—and the withdrawal from the same contest of Sheriff Earl Whitmore—highlighted activities on the GOP political front this week.

Burkett's entry, plus that of two others, brought to twelve the total number now bidding for support of the important county-wide Republican Fact-Finding Committee. That committee meets again tonight (Thursday, Feb. 14) in San Mateo city hall for one of the final steps in its pre-voting screening process.

Agenda plans call for the fact finders to spend the sixth in their series of meetings in detailed question of the respective aspirants. Completion of this activity will clear the way for final voting on the nominee to be supported in June primary elections, at a further meeting February 21.

Daly City Reserves To Train In July

Scores of Daly City reserve officers and enlisted men are expected to be called up for active duty on a "mandatory" basis during the two weeks between July 6 and 20, following the announcement by Army spokesmen in San Francisco this week that Northern California's contingent will total 1,621 officers and 2,987 enlisted men in the biggest summer-camp training program yet attempted by the armed forces.

The bulk of this area's reserves are expected to train at Camp Hunter Liggett and Camp Roberts, but some may be sent to Camp Cooke, Fort Ord, Camp Stoneman and Fort Huachuca, Arizona.

Nationally the total to be called up during the two-weeks of active duty will be 160,000.

California had 487,000 colonies of honey bees in 1951, by far the largest number of any State in the nation.

BRUBAKER TO LEAD KNOWLAND CAMPAIGN

P. W. "Tom" Brubaker—for many years prior to the war a Peninsula insurance agent—has been chosen to lead the county-wide campaign for re-election of U. S. Senator William Knowland.

Appointment of the 47-year-old San Mateo resident was announced today by E. L. Richardson, chairman of the county's Republican central committee.

Richardson pointed out that Brubaker directed the successful 1948 and 1950 election programs in San Mateo for retiring Congressman Jack Z. Anderson.

Taking over the helm of the Knowland re-election movement, Brubaker said that his first step would be to appoint local chairmen in cities and towns throughout the county. This will be done immediately, he indicated.

Veteran Purchaser Of Broadmoor Home Blames Stoneson For Flood Damages

(Ed Note: This is the second in a series of letters THE RECORD is publishing to illustrate the plight of certain Broadmoor residents caught in the recent floods.)

February 2, 1952
Federal Housing Administration
180 New Montgomery Street
San Francisco, California
Gentlemen:

During the past several months a group of us home purchasers on Larchmont Drive, Colma, have written to you individually and collectively stating the condition of flood damage in this section. To the best of my knowledge no investigation has been made nor responsibility been established or taken as to the cause of this flood damage. Because I am a Veteran purchaser of the home located at 628 Larchmont, I feel that something should be done to stop this situation and to correct the damage that has been done to my particular property and to other Veterans involved.

I am placing all future payments on my home in escrow with the West Portal Branch of The San Francisco Bank in a sincere endeavor to try to protect the value of the property that I am purchasing. Inasmuch as you are the security holder of this property, I am quite sure that you will agree with and substantiate my actions in this case.

The cause of the series of floods that we have now encountered, and they now number three, are not due to what would seem to be an abnormal rainfall but due to the fact that the Stoneson Development Corporation did, almost a year after we moved into our home, change the drainage condition of the area surrounding our home. At the present time, practically all water on the hill in back of or above us and of two blocks of homes located above us, if you ever get interested enough to come out and investigate, are being diverted into one single drain that is only 18 inches in diameter. Prior to the change made by the Stoneson Corporation, a large portion of this water was directed into the street and flowed down the street rather than into this inadequate drain. As a result of this inadequate drainage, our house has been flooded on three different occasions since December 1, and in addition to the house being flooded, the erosion and damage caused by silt and the flow of water, has so greatly depreciated the value of the house and property that I am sure you will agree that something must be done in order to bring the property up somewhere near the value that has to be paid on this loan.

To briefly summarize some of the damage that has been done, I will list things that are most apparent. Water on three different occasions has come into every room in the house causing considerable damage to the asphalt tile on the floors. The excessive weight of water and silt completely covering the entire yard from the street to the dropoff on the hill, has caused an abnormal settling of the house. This settling has directly caused the following. The door that leads from the garage to the yard now is completely out of square and is difficult to open and close. The foundation in the garage has cracked completely through on both sides of the garage. The garage concrete floor has completely separated from the floor foundation of the house and has left a large gap between the two. The driveway has cracked completely across and is now even breaking into smaller sections.

At least half of the front lawn is destroyed by silt deposits left after the water has receded from these floods. The improvements which we have made in the yard, of which we were very proud, have almost completely been destroyed. The back and side lawn that was put in at our own expense has almost been completely destroyed. All of our flower beds have suffered severe damage and for the most part were washed away. A hedge that I had put in with a neighbor has been damaged and about one-third of this hedge has been washed away. A large number of the plants that I had planted of the receding hill on our back yard, have also been washed away.

During these past three floods, as stated above, our entire yard has been under water. The water has flowed down the receding hill of our back yard over the entire width of the yard. Because of the slope of the hill and because of some hedge plants we planted along the back, the largest volume of water flowed down in such a manner that there has now been washed into the hill on our property in back two gigantic ditches. These two ditches meet just below the end of our property line. They have so exposed the property that the gigantic "V" in between these two ditches create a definite possibility of our complete back yard sliding away and endangering not only the back yard but the house as well.

Inasmuch as the ground upon which our house is situated and the ground completely surrounding the house is still saturated with water, it is difficult to say just what further damage we can expect when the grounds thoroughly drain and dry out. Because of the severe damage we have already suffered and because of what may happen as the ground settles and dries, I certainly believe that some action must be taken to correct the situation that has caused the floods and some action must be taken to repair and put back into original condition my home and my property before further direct payment can be made.

Inasmuch as I intend to continue payments and to place them in escrow until the conditions I mentioned are met, I am sure you will agree that this letter is written in good faith in trying to protect my total savings that I have invested in what I hope will someday be my home. Also, inasmuch as you are the prime collateral holder, I am sure this action will meet with your approval.

Your very truly,
Earl G. Miller

Ricci Withdraws Name From Council Race In Favor Of Dennis' Candidacy

February 11, 1952

Gentlemen: During the past few months I have been considering being a candidate for the city council this April.

After careful study and consideration, I have chosen to withdraw from the race in favor of Edward J. Dennis.

I hope my many friends will lend their support to Dennis, a man I am sure is competent to fill the job of city councilman.

At the present I have not the time to devote to this responsible office. However, I realize numerous improvements should be made for the good of our city.

Hoping this explains my position, and thanking my many friends representing business and labor in Daly City that have pledged their support to me, I remain,

Sincerely yours,
Tony Ricci

Daughters Express Their Gratitude For Kindness Shown Mother At Villa

The Editor,
The Record,
Daly City, Calif.
Dear Sir:

The undersigned would like to take this opportunity to express their gratitude for the many kindnesses and solicitous care to the shut-ins at the Villa Sanitarium of this city. It is, indeed, a credit to the entire county of San Mateo.

This letter is occasioned primarily by our feeling of thanks for the care given our late mother, Mrs. Mary May, who spent the last four and a half years of her life at the Villa.

However, we both observed on numerous occasions how kindly Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sarto treat their sick and aged charges.

DEAR PARENTS

By Jane Keith

Today is Betty Ann Brunette's birthday and she and Malcolm are going to the fair. On her fifth birthday she went to the fair, but all the wonders of the mid-way were dimmed then because her "friend," Malcolm, was not with her to savor them and even the "Dark Mystery" is better shivered over in company. It is now eight o'clock in the morning with the trip not coming off until eight this evening, but both Betty Ann and Malcolm are dressed, fed—and saying:

"You said we were going to the fair. Isn't it time to go to the fair?"

"We, Maude and myself, supply them with paper, crayons and scissors for making valentines and make for the tea pot and cups in the dinette, where Maude regales me with the story of Betty Ann and the "Dark Mystery."

"The other night," she begins, "Bill and I were sitting in the front room looking nostalgically at my old, beige cashmere sweater. Betty Ann, listening eagerly and with both ears pricked for information, suddenly says:

"Mommy, did Daddy give you that sweater a long time ago?"

"Yes, dear, a long time ago—before we were married."

Betty Ann's arms squeezed her chest in a quick ecstatic hug and her brown eyes sparkled.

"You mean a long, long, time ago when you and Daddy were in love? Oh, isn't it exciting? Just like the "Dark Mystery?"

"What is this "Dark Mystery?"

"Lack, wondering about a five-year-old and love. "Is it a television program?"

"Oh no, it's one of the concessions out at the beach—you know, the one like a dark tunnel all full of skeletons, goblins and scary things?"

"Oh," I say mentally, comparing love and the Dark Mystery and thinking of five-year-olds in general—and we laugh together, thinking warm thoughts of our children.

"You said we were going to the fair," comes Malcolm's voice. "Isn't it time to go yet?"

"Not yet," says Maude, and I leave for town and shopping.

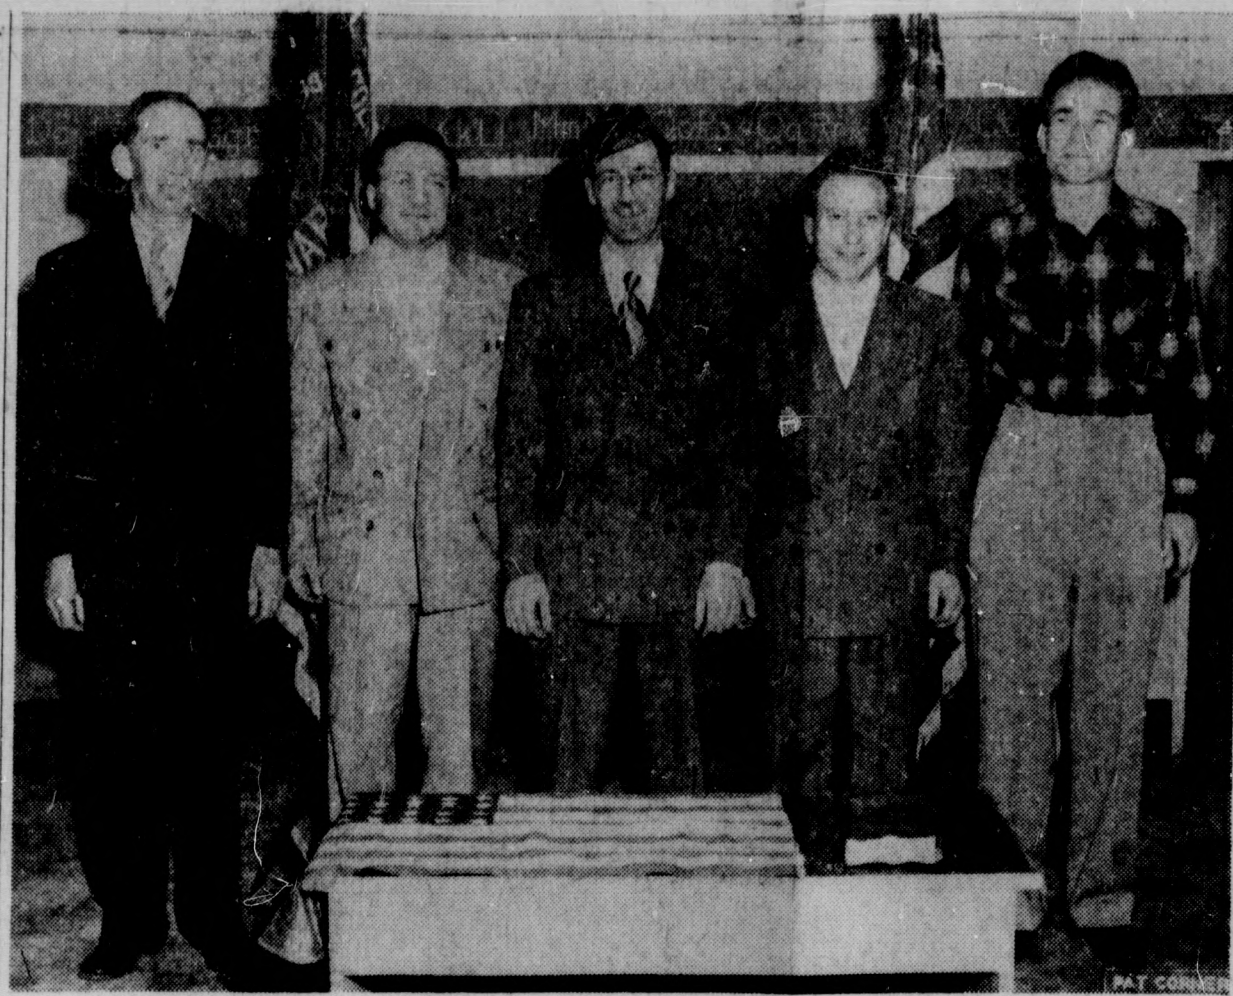

It is two o'clock before I return from town and bring Malcolm home for a nap.

"Come on, Malcolm!" I say, gathering up the valentines he has made and making for the door. "Come home now and take a nice nap so you will be fresh and ready to go out tonight!" And he comes, but in a subdued sort of way that makes me worry about his health and Maude tells me he hasn't been asking for snacks all morning as usual. . . . Surely nothing will happen to spoil this birthday party?

It is finally six p.m. and Malcolm leaves the house. The long waiting begins for us, then because we have promised to wait up for him and the evening is around us—empty and too quiet.

We talk of Malcolm and feel secretly foolish to miss him so much. We are completely parents.

At 11:30 they return—Malcolm subdued, but obviously happy and pleased with the prizes he has won, and Betty Ann simply radiant. We retire, and morning brings the answer: to the slight chill complained about at bedtime: Malcolm is spotted from head to toe—with chickenpox!

And Whist Party

Between them, the American Legion, Daly City Post No. 410, and its women's Auxiliary, are planning to hold two affairs open to the public.

The first will be the beans and baked ham dinner to be served at the American Legion hall, 474 San Diego avenue, on Saturday evening, February 23, under the joint sponsorship of the Legion and Auxiliary.

The women's Auxiliary of the Post will give a whist party on Friday evening, February 29. Mrs. Alice Forte is chairman of the arrangements committee. This, too, will be held in the American Legion hall.

NEW

BUCHANANI

Cathy Marie, third child and first daughter, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harold N. Buchanan, 13 Castlemont avenue, Westlake, in St. Mary's hospital on January 29. Cathy's two brothers, Harold, 5, and Robert, 16 months old, were beginning to wonder what had happened to the female of the species that one of her number was so tardy in gracing their nursery with what is familiarly alluded to as feminine allure.

Cathy will want for no young lady habiliments, for her father owns and operates a ladies' and children's store in North Beach. He will see to it that Cathy's most pressing current needs in the matter of wearing apparel, those three-corned mysteries to the male mind, are well supplied.

WOLFE

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wolfe, 1071 Gilman drive, Colma, became the parents of a son, born in St. Mary's hospital, January 28. The new baby weighed eight and a half pounds at birth. He was named John R., Jr.

John has two sisters, Susan, three years and three months old, and Christine, two.

BARIL

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Baril, on Wednesday, January 30.

MATHEWS

Mary Anne, weighing six pounds, was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Mathews, 450 Crocker avenue, on January 28, in St. Mary's hospital. She received an enthusiastic "welcome home" from her brother, Michael Albert, 6; and Sis Kathleen Alice, 18 months.

GINNO

A potential navigator for the U. S. Air Force was born in St. Luke's hospital January 29 to Lt. and Mrs. John W. Ginno, 140 W. Moltke. He weighed in at seven pounds and 13 ounces and was named David.

David's father is a navigator with the Army Air Force, currently stationed in Oklahoma City. Lt. Ginno is a native of Burlingame, while Mrs. Ginno claims Daly City as her place of birth. Mrs. Ginno and the new baby's brother, Douglas, three, will fly to join the husband and father in the Oklahoma city on March 1.

GARCIA

Yvonne Marie is the first born of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Garcia, 3312 San Jose avenue. Yvonne was born in St. Mary's hospital, January 29, weighing five pounds and 10 ounces.

STARK

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Stark happily welcomed their first born when Kathleen Marie, weighing six pounds, thirteen ounces, was born at Children's hospital February 2.

SALTZMAN

More feminine charm was added to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Saltzman, 52 Hillside avenue, Westlake, when Linda Diane, weighing five pounds and seven ounces, was born at Stanford hospital Saturday, February 2.

Linda Diane has a sister, Laura Lynn, 28 months old.

MUNDAY

With Daly City's rapid growth, it is entirely within the realm of possibility that the daughter born to Officer and Mrs. Charles Munday at St. Francis hospital Friday, February 8, may follow in her dad's footsteps and become part of this city's police force in the capacity of a policewoman.

The first sample of the female of the species of the Munday clan has been named Martha Ann. Her twenty-nine month old brother's name is Claude Steven. Martha Ann weighed in at a husky nine pounds and a half.

Why then did you not tell us? We did not know.' On every side I heard similar words of reproach spoken." E. G. WHITE, Revelation 16.

Past presidents of Sheridan PTA will be the honored guests at this meeting.

KATHLEEN NORRIS Marital Swap

NOTHING that ever happens to a married woman is quite as fascinating as an unexpected love affair.

When, at the club lunch or cocktail party, some new man pays her sudden attention, murmurs significant nothings to her, promises her a certain book, asks if she might have time some day this week to let him show her the loan exhibition, her whole life takes on new color, and Peggy goes home on air.

It may be Amy's husband—quiet old Tom, of all people! Or it may be the good-looking naval commander who is Lucie's cousin.

Peggy is Amy's best friend, and Tom is Amy's husband; that doesn't matter. And the commander has twice been divorced for mental cruelty. That doesn't matter either. Peggy's own husband is nice enough, too, but Lee is dull, after 12 years of wedlock. Reason, experience, loyalty, duty have all gone overboard; they had nothing to do with the thrill, the excitement that Peggy feels.

Each Man Dull

And if the affair develops, and goes far enough, she gets a divorce, and goes right on to find another man faulty, unreasonable, dull, unsatisfactory in his turn. She says (1) that quarreling is bad for children, (2) that why not have two persons happy instead of four miserable, and (3) that lots of people have always thought Lee was queer.

Four young persons in an eastern city recently went through these experiences simultaneously. One gets used, these days, to a good deal of marital shifting, but I've never heard of anything quite like this.

"... some new man ..."

The Beagles and the Yeagles—call them that—moved into adjoining homes, in a sparsely settled district. At first sight, it appears, Mrs. Yeagle and Mr. Beagle fell in love, and were smitten with the conviction that they were destined for each other. The Yeagles have four children, the Beagles three, all seven very young. After while Mrs. Beagle and Mr. Yeagle also discovered the grand passion, and the four met and discussed the situation. They took what seemed to them "the honorable way," and after divorces on grounds of mental cruelty, Mr. Beagle went next door, to be stepfather to the Yeagle children, and Mr. Yeagle reversed the process. One husband works in a garage, the other in a grocery. They are plain, unpretentious folk, and they claim that they wanted to do what was right.

Now apart from the gullest stupidity of four persons who could think that any possible happiness or security could follow this extraordinary performance, and apart from any moral consideration, can any woman imagine a situation more filled with utter confusion, and eventual misery? Both fathers surrendered their children; two mothers declaring that they could not "have drawn a breath" without their children.

New Daddy

So to four bewildered children the familiar Daddy of the children with whom they played every day presently took his place as their new guardian, and to the children next door an equally strange new Daddy appeared. The oldest of all seven children is hardly more than 10, the youngest a mere infant.

How strange will be the situation when the inevitable nursery crises of spunks and spills and wet diapers and sour bottles and coughs and colds set in, with Mother in her nightgown trying to combine the ecstasies of the grand passion with the claims of her children, perfectly aware that the children's rightful father, a hundred feet away in another house, is facing the troubles of a different bunch of babies—and that the rightful father of those babies is right here in her room with her!

I knew of a similar case of changed partners, years ago, but that took place after an all-night drinking bout in Europe, between rich persons who thought it would be a great joke. The joke turned out pretty sourly, with one divorce, one suicide—a minor's—and one lawsuit, in the years that followed.

But these other four, just how high will they have to pay for the simple vanity and selfishness that brought on all this talk of sudden passionate love, talk of which most high-school girls would be ashamed? Just what is each woman getting out of the decision of those fluttered weeks when it seemed to both women just too breath-takingly romantic that a new man—a man quite unlike good, tiresome Harry or humdrum Van, should actually want to make a change? It is really pitiful to think about the inevitable squabbles.

S.M.J.C. EVENTS College Adult Center Reopens

Over a thousand students enrolled at San Mateo Junior college in the first three days of the Spring semester, and this week the college adult center started registration for the evening program arranged for men and women of the Peninsula.

Community hall of the adult center will present an illustrated lecture on New England Autumn Monday, February 18, and a week later will have a lecture with pictures on South Africa. The programs start at 7:30 in the college auditorium and are free to the public.

Nancy, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Foster, 50 Parkwood drive, Westlake, entertained seven of her little neighbors and friends and their mothers at a birthday party Sunday afternoon, February 10.

The children wore circus hats and the entire motif for the party was done in the circus mood. There were circus animal baskets of candy on the table, plastic circus clowns grinned through their varicolored paint and the table carried all the color and gaiety of the Big Top.

Cake and ice cream were served. Those attending were Bonnie Mackie, cousin of the celebrant, Kay Perry, Bruce Kilday, Bobby and Jimmy Norton, Kathleen Herman and Jean Mitchell.

Exhaust Fumes Deadly

It's a dangerous practice to leave your car motor running when you are parked in a garage, reminds the California State Automobile Association. Carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust are deadly and can kill a person quickly when outside air is cut off. Always turn the ignition switch off as soon as possible when you drive into your garage.

It is time once more for a display of hearts and flowers and the giving of boxes of candy as everybody gets ready for Valentine's Day. Here we have had several Valentine parties as well as birthday parties and a wedding.

Luckily no children were out playing in front and the driver escaped with merely torn pants and a few minor bruises.

Raring back in winning form after being on the short end of the score for three consecutive league meetings, the Jefferson quintet took a 47 to 41 dual from the Capuchino five last Friday, the 8th.

The traveling kit of the Indian tribe was bruised and dented with defeats from two previous journeys, but encountering the San Bruno high school, Capuchino, the redskins tallied their first road win.

First Three Frames Pushover
The Daly City casaba men had little trouble in finding the San Bruno range in the first round of play. Fine ball handling and an effective well-mixed group of plays made the Indians sole bosses of the game. During the first section of the contest the entire first string of Jefferson had pulled together to tidy up a 10-2 lead.

Fourth Quarter Evened Tilt
Guard Solem and forward Browne combined their skills early in the fourth square to tie the score at 38 to 38, after a widely dominated Jeff three quarter stand. These two boys with their eagle eyes on the free throw line and the power to hit from behind the enemy's defense showed them as the truly hustling assets of their team.

As the affair continued it was Don Delbon temporarily halting the proceedings by sinking a free throw. Jeff's Don Wilson and Cap's Solem exchanged field goals that still maintained a one point lead for the Indians.

Browne took the hero's spot again by ringing a free throw to make it 41 all. The title of hero soon traded hands, however, when Tribeman Angelo Calorio tanked two FG's for a four point margin on the Jefferson side of the ledger. Don Delbon closed shop by hitting two more tallies on the four shot line and moments later a 47 to 41 ball game was now past history.

Tonight at San Jose the Jefferson Indians will tangle with the powerful Rams of Willow Glen high school at 7:30 o'clock.

Next Thursday the neighborhood rivals of South San Francisco will be met by the local Indians.

The show runs from February 29 to March 9.

The school, set for 10 a.m. that morning, will be conducted by a nationally-famous champion fly and bait-caster, and there is no age limit for the boys and girls. They have only to bring their rod and reel to the huge auditorium, and they'll get their instruction. In addition, each youngster attending will receive a free ticket to the show.

The latest in equipment for fishermen, campers, hunters and vacationists will be shown in the huge outdoorsmen's exposition. Twice daily a sports floor show featuring champions in outdoor sports will be presented.

Westlake P. T. A. Gives Principal A Life Membership

Mrs. Eleanor Zenovich, principal of the Westlake school, was presented the first honorary life membership of the Westlake PTA by Mrs. Fred Kruse, vice president, at the Founder's Day meeting February 7.

The meeting, presided over by Mrs. Howard Dunbar, president, commenced with the Girl Scouts leading the unit in the Pledge of Allegiance, after which the group joined Mrs. Joseph Futernich in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

Mrs. Francis Gates announced that the Valentine canasta party would be held February 15, at 8 p.m. at the clubhouse. A variety of prizes, donated by the Westlake merchants, will be offered to the winners.

Mrs. Lionel Farber reported that inasmuch as it was so close to Valentine's Day, the children in Mr. Hough's class will be given books for their library rather than a party for winning the membership drive.

Nominating Committee
The following members were chosen to serve on the Nominating Committee: Mrs. Fred LaSoulcy, Mrs. DeWitt Smith, Mrs. Ziegler, Mrs. Edward Molkenbuh, Jr., and Mrs. Daviton.

Mrs. Howard Dunbar then adjourned the business meeting and turned the evening over to Mrs. Gordon Carlson who was acting chairman for the evening's program.

Mrs. John Hiller read the "Founder's Day History."

Mrs. Jensen Speaker

Mrs. Stella Jensen, life membership chairman for the 17th district and guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. Jensen outlined the honorary life membership project which was started to create a fund so that worthy students could complete their education—the stipulation being that the funds were to be repaid when the student was later earning.

A candlelight ceremony was presented by the following members

Donley, Local Hi Grad, Signed To Seals Contract

Charles Donley, seventeen-year-old pitcher from Daly City, signed a contract with the San Francisco Seals late last week. Donley, a 170 pound, six feet, one inch hurler, is believed to have signed for $250 a month. Early in March he will start training with the Yakima ball team which is one of the Seals farm clubs.

Chuck played high school ball for the Jefferson Indians here in Daly City. In his senior year he shared pitching honors with teammate Ed Cereghino. When Ed threw, Donley took over the first base position, where he was chosen second string all PAL. The 1258 Brunswick street resident played semi-pro ball for Vince and Fred's Liquor Store on Sundays at Marchbank Park where he was carefully tutored.

Also last week another ex-Jeff Hi student was enrolled in pro ball, Lawrence Jenkins. Jenkins, who held down the right field duties at Jefferson in his high senior days, was signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates for one of their farms.

County Sanitarium To Open In March

Plans for the formal opening of the new San Mateo County Sanitarium for tubercular patients in March are being made, according to Dr. Harold C. Choche, county health director.

The three-story building, located west of Redwood City in a scenic canyon, has been built at a total cost of $1,583,887. That includes furniture, medical, surgical, office, kitchen and room equipment.

Dr. Choche said that the total cost of the structure represented a cost per bed of $13,654, but that if it were to be built now it would probably cost almost twice as much.

It is claimed that the county sanitarium is the most up-to-date institution of its kind in the state.

Vince And Fred's Liquors Nine Wins Another In Winter Baseball League

Sparked and fired to play heads up ball by their rejuvenated Catcher-Manager's four stolen bases, the Vince and Fred's Liquors baseball aggregation took the measure of the Tufo Jewelers nine at the Funston playground last Sunday afternoon. The final count was 4 to 1 in favor of the local boys.

Just to disprove the old saw that "The old grey mare ain't what she used to be" the Daly City manager made the young battery and keystone sackman look silly by pilfering the quartet of bags. More than 20 years ago, in 1931, Krohn played with Sacramento in the Pacific Coast league.

Greys Hits Triple

Contributing to the victory of the Vince and Fred's troupe was the triple banged out by Joe Greys, centerfielder, sending Clayton home from second.

That same Clayton, from his position in right field, threw a man out who was trying to make second on a hit and run play. The hitter was lucky to earn credit for a single by making first base ahead of De Bernardi's throw.

McDowell, pitcher for the winners, and De Bernardi paired their efforts to pick off two would-be stealers of second base. The win puts Vince and Fred's Liquors in second place in league standings, trailing behind the Don Gillmores who occupy first position by virtue of two wins and no losses. The locals boast two wins and one loss.

RESIDENT CALLS FOR SIGNALS AT DANGEROUS WESTLAKE CROSSING

(Ed Note: Following is a letter written by J. H. Gilmore, 754 Niantic avenue, in an effort to get signals for the Alemany extension crossing in Westlake. We reprint it, for THE RECORD believes it is of interest to every Daly City resident.)

February 11, 1952
Mr. Frank B. Durkee
Director of Public Works
Public Works Building
Sacramento, California
Dear Mr. Durkee:

You have probably had called to your attention the traffic conditions which are every day endangering the lives of many pedestrians crossing State Route 56, known as the Alemany Extension, in Daly City, San Mateo county, at the points where it intersects Belmont drive, Lynwood drive and Park Plaza drive.

The conditions now existing in this area are so serious that some action should be taken immediately to protect pedestrians against the onrushing traffic, particularly at the busy hours when so many people are coming to and from work. Unless some drastic action is taken many more lives are going to be lost needlessly. The same conditions prevail on El Camino Real, which is known as U. S. 101, where it intersects with School street, Citrus street and Vista Grande street, all in Daly City.

As a resident in the area I am writing to ask if any steps have been taken by your department to erect stop signs or other traffic-controlling signalling devices in this area.

If your department does not have the right to step in and erect stop signs in those areas within city limits where such action is necessary to protect the lives of the pedestrians, please let me know what should be done by me and other interested citizens to see to it that a request is initiated through the proper channels without further delay.

Any information that you are able to give me, particularly any report as to action already taken concerning this important subject, will be most helpful.

Yours very truly,
JOSEPH H. GILMORE

Colma Bee Rockets Go Down To Third Defeat, 9 To 16, Before Colma Jets

By HARRY ARONSON

Coordinator of Recreation

The Colma Rockets small fry lost their third game in a row, but not without a brilliant second half comeback that almost turned the tide of the game. Behind 9 to 0 at the half, the Rockets, smallest team in the league, out jumped, out played, and out hustled their taller rivals, but the gap was too large to fill.

Bill Long, skyscraper center for the Jets, proved the difference by scoring 11 of his teams 16 total. Hendon and Atteberry contributed two and three points respectively.

For the Rockets five players hit the scoring column. Jack Klinger made good on a free throw, and Bill Benofsky, Ron Fredricks, Bill Magee, and Ken Day each found the range for two pointers. The win for the Jets gives coach Dan Sienes and his team a record of 3 wins and no losses.

Colma A's, 37-17
The Colma Rockets with their first team intact, outscored their brother team by a 20 point margin in a game that was close for the first half. Leading at the half by a 17 to 13 count, the Rockets held the Jets to only two field goals in the second half while piling up 20 points in their own behalf.

Leading the way for the Rockets was Darrel Hutchinson with 17 points, while Herm Stevenson accounted for 12 points. Andy Ruelas had four, Art Sutter 2 and John Lucia 2. Lucia played an outstanding defensive game, as did Hutchinson, with both players controlling the backboards.

For the Jets, Harold Funkhouser potted three long shots to lead the scoring for his team. Bill Cullen scored four points and Ron Lippert finished with five. Ben Trotter had a two-pointer. Daryl Hall and Bob Grubb turned in good defensive games, but were unable to score for their side.

The games next Friday will be between Perpetual Help and the Colma Jets.

Stolen Car Returned To Charles Olivia

Charles Olivia, 75 Citrus avenue, is a friendly sort of person toward men in uniform. But when he befriended a couple of sailors the other day they repaid him by stealing his automobile.

Olivia had brought the navy men to his home after meeting them in San Francisco. At 1:10 Tuesday morning, last, he called the police to report that his car which had been parked in front of his house was stolen. He suspected the two sailors he had brought home and who were now gone—like the car.

San Francisco police located the undamaged auto on Second street. Olivia has his mobile property but his friendliness is somewhat cramped.

AAA Midget Races Scheduled

Bay Meadows Race Track will be the scene of the Pacific Coast's first 100-mile National AAA midget racing championship on Sunday, March 2, promoter J. C. Agajanian announced today.

Agajanian, who has promoted more AAA races along the Pacific Slope during the past two years than any other man in history, made the announcement of the March 2 event after lengthy negotiation with the American Automobile Association and the nation's finest pilots.

Throughout the past two decades the "little cars" have made frequent appearances on tracks of the Pacific Coast, but March 2 will mark the first time the AAA, respected body of outstanding auto racing, has sanctioned such an event.

Agajanian made it clear he would bring nothing but "name" drivers to Bay Meadows for the 100-mile race, the initial time in Pacific Coast auto racing history the small jobs have toured such a distance. All of the cars will be Offenhauser midgets piloted by drivers of Indianapolis fame.

Approximately 50 entries are anticipated to compete for the $5000 purse which Agajanian has announced will be given to the winning cars.

Car Lights

This time of year when the days are shorter and visibility is reduced, there's all the more reason why your car lights must be in top condition, says the California State Automobile Association. Have your headlights, tail-lights, stop light and your turn signal lamps checked regularly, especially during these months of short days and long nights.

Daly City Count Of Auto Accidents On Its Streets In 1951 Totaled 181

Out of a total of 181 automobile accidents which occurred in Daly City during the year 1951, forty-three, or almost one-fourth of them took place in the month of December.

An analyst might attribute this overwhelming accident incidence last December to the unusual rainy weather we had then, or he might accept the most obvious explanation—the alcohol-stimulated conviviality attendant upon Christmas and New Year's eve.

Whatever the cause, the figures, as released in the annual accident report for 1951 by Chief of Police R. A. Petrocchi, stun the imagination of the safety-minded citizen.

It is but little comfort that, as Chief Petrocchi states, most of the people involved in automobile accidents occurring on our streets are not Daly City residents but drive through our community from surrounding towns and cities.

The Breakdown
Broken down according to months, the statistics as compiled by the local police department, indicate that February last year saw the least accidents, seven. Perhaps that is because of the brevity of the month. The next lowest automobile accident rate is listed for April, with eight.

Next to December in the number of accidents, January had 19, followed by November, 17. These latter figures—added to the December total—are fairly accurate proof that more care is required of the driver during the winter months, when streets are wet and visibility is cut down—plus the neglected windshield.

Damage Done
The report compiled by Chief Petrocchi also shows that 43 persons suffered lesser or greater bodily injury in the 181 automobile accidents in Daly City last year.

Bicycles figured in three accidents and property damage was attributed to 11 collisions between cars.

There were seven pedestrians seriously or slightly injured during 1951 on the streets of this city.

Mission Unsafe
Mission street was the unsafest thoroughfare in the city, it and its many intersections figured in 76 of the automobile accidents.

Most accidents at any one intersection were tabulated against Junipero Serra and Highway No. 1, 13, but Highway No. 1 and its various intersections were also hazardous as the number of accidents there, 18, shows.

Afissoff Held For Superior Court On Bad Check Charge

Morris A. Afissoff, 29, of 47 Felipe, South San Francisco, was bound over to the superior court when he pleaded guilty before Police Judge William Sweeney Friday morning to charges of issuing and cashing a worthless check amounting to almost one hundred dollars. He cashed the check at the Kings' market.

Afissoff told Judge Sweeney that he was deeply in debt and hoped to prevent the repossession of a car he was buying on time when he cashed the check. He admitted he had made the check out to a fictitious name and signed it fictitiously.

In lieu of his inability to raise bail of $1,000, Afissoff was turned over to the sheriff's department to await superior court trial.

A Margin For Safety

Don't hang on the tail of the car in front of you, says the California State Automobile Association. Follow at a reasonable distance, so there's a margin for safety in case the other driver stops his car suddenly.

Punta del Ano Nuevo, the extreme point of San Mateo County, was so named by Sebastian Vizcaino in 1603.

SNUG HARBOR

By STRANGE WILLIAMS

Ever so often someone tells me of a strange incident, a funny story perhaps. A very sad incident of someone's life. Whenever I think it is of interest to others I like to pass along the bit of gossip or gab. This, I think, will interest all of us.

Theory is one thing. New modern ideas of psychology, where children are concerned, are something yet to be proven over the years by trial and error.

Personally I am inclined to stay by the old way of raising children. This letter sent to me by a friend speaks for itself. I am only happy to pass it along to you. Whether you agree or not, this mother is a happy one.

I can't begin to tell you what a happy Christmas holiday I had. All the lovely cards and so many beautiful gifts this year I never dreamed of.

Well I'll get on with my story. We all get presents, but that wasn't what really made this year so wonderful.

No one knows better than you the struggle I had raising my son all by myself.

What with a doting grandmother to spoil him every hour of the day and aunts and uncles ready to fight for him at the drop of the hat whenever they thought I was too strict with him. My having to work and leave him all day with other people to supervise his play, and lack of personal interest most of the time; it was tough going.

It was the constant bickering with my own family that was really the hardest to take. But I couldn't go against my convictions when it came to my son. I knew I was strict with him. I had to be.

As you very well know the age of fourteen and seventeen were the hardest years of all. That was when he began to demand his own views and personal freedom. I gave him all the freedom he wanted, but he still had to ask permission when he wanted to go out, even though he was making his own money then.

Those were the times he reminded me how strict I was with him when he was a baby and the many times he was spanked. And he never forgot the time I broke the hair brush on his posterior for playing hooky from school. That was two years ago.

This Christmas I had a house guest with a son of her own my boy's age. To make a long story short he didn't even bother to stay with his mother Christmas eve, but came home about 3 a.m. plastered.

To say that he was rude and ill-mannered to his mother would

He has also been an occasional guest on television programs staged by Marjorie King (KGO-TV), "Afternoon hostess," and "Time for leisure," with Bonnie Kever on KRON-TV.

During the past 20 years, also, Mr. Kelley has lectured before garden clubs throughout California and has contributed occasional articles on garden lore to Bay Area newspapers.

Car Owned By Former City Engineer Hit In Redwood City

The automobile owned by Robert Klassen, former city engineer here, was struck by a car driven by Charles W. Hankins, 26, a San Francisco repairman, as it was parked on Bayshore highway in Redwood City at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, February 8.

Ralph Bixler, 39, of San Francisco, a passenger in Hankins car, received minor injuries and was treated by his personal physician.

A Billion Off Gets You $30

Importance Of Cut In Tax Bill Emphasized

Every billion dollars which congress cuts off the proposed $85.4 billion federal budget for 1952-53 means about $30 which a California family of four can keep for its own family purposes—will not have to pay in taxes, California Taxpayers' association estimated today. The federal budget proposes expenditures which are $14.5 billion greater than anticipated revenues from present federal tax sources.

For the 264,990 people of San Mateo county (January 1, 1952), every billion dollars cut out of the proposed federal budget means about $1,985.175 which can be spent or invested in the county.

If the federal budget were held to the $71 billion of anticipated revenues—if it could be reduced by $14.5 billion—it would mean a tax saving of at least $28,851,210 to the people of the county—about $435 per family of four.

To the people of California, every billion which is cut out of the proposed federal budget means a tax saving of about $83,000,000.

A cut back to expected revenues would mean about $1.2 billion left in California for expansion of industry and a better standard of living for the people of the state.

Don't Weave

No matter how skillful a driver may be, weaving from lane to lane has always about it a touch of the suicidal, warns the National Automobile Club. Wise motorists don't indulge in this dangerous practice. Rather than be spectacular, they choose to be safe.

LESLIE's dress shop in Broadmoor could rightly name one corner "Great Expectations" . . . They have some of the loveliest and most practical maternity clothes in this, or any other, town . . . including slacks, slips, dresses and smocks!

Parents of "car" hungry small fry would do very well for very little in the Broadmoor Pharmacy. Found a little old fashioned car with a real front and back seat for the just right "after shopping for groceries" price of 25c!

Rhubarb lovers who find the present price of about ten cents a stalk too rich for their blood can find the 1 lb. 4 oz. canned variety in heavy syrup—for the astounding price of 25 cents a can. Where? In the Town and Country Market over in Westlake. . .

Bouquets to all stores giving window space to Cub Pack exhibits—and to the hard working men and women behind those Packs. They work constantly and for nothing. Nothing but our children's welfare, that is! Hats off!

Those Edgewood Terrace mothers who porchlighted the March of Dimes were really full of the collecting spirit—so much so, in fact, that one of them—when asked:

"How old is your little girl?" replied briskly:

"Oh, a dollar and a half."

The candy "With the College Education" has moved to Westlake, too! You can pick up your box by dropping into Godfrey's Ice Cream store in the Town and Country shopping center. And, along with that box of Wilson's candies—be sure to carry home some of Godfrey's glorious ice cream! POST SCRIPT: They are open until ten every evening!

Hamburger hunters looking for their money's worth in meat instead of lettuce and sauces would do well to try Mary's Dinette on Top-of-the-Hill! Store specialties are Spanish and Mexican foods which I haven't tried as yet, but take my voucher for the service and clean atmosphere—and lack of such incidentals as pin ball machines, etc.

Reminiscent of Dorothy Parker's poem which ends "inseparable my thumb and nose" is the Revlon "Love That Red" lady in the window of McGraw's drug store on Top-of-the-Hill.

Looking for the SOMETHING EXTRA in service and quality? Try the Vista Grande Market on Top-of-the-Hill. They carry only the finest in groceries, vegetables and meats—and the size of the store merely proves the old adage that "good things come in small packages!" Yes, THEY DELIVER!

Nomination for the best smelling store in town this week goes to the Delicatessen in Westlake when Babe Bullo's Pizza is fresh from the oven! Special days for Pizza are Friday, Saturday and Sunday, but it is available every day of the week—along with ravioli, minestrone, tagliarini, Italian style potato salad—and all made on the immaculate premises by Peter Nossardi, Nevo Latoracca or Babe Bullo, the store's owners.

Supervisor Hickey Blasts State Appointed Rapid Transit Commission

"We're giving up our birthright and we're paying a hell of a price for it." That was the blast County Supervisor Thomas H. Hickey leveled at "state encroachment on local authority" when he spoke at the joint conference of the San Mateo and San Francisco county supervisors at the Fairmont hotel Monday.

The forthright supervisor got fighting mad at Governor Earl Warren's appointment of the nine-county commission which was set up to study rapid transit needs of the Bay Area.

Hickey termed the commission as "vicious" and rhetorically asked, "Why should we have the governor appoint someone to tell us what to do when we are capable of making our own decisions?"

Same For School Control

Mr. Hickey also took a shot at the state emergency school relief program which, he accused, took the government of schools out of local hands. "Now when you build a school," said Hickey, "you must call in a state official who must approve the site, tell you how big the school must be and how much it should cost."

The San Mateo county supervisor wound up his talk against

Mrs. John Sorenson will act as chairman and John P. Mongan, vice-principal and attendance supervisor at Jefferson Union high school, will give a talk on "Parental Responsibility."

POLICE DEPARTMENT

Daly City Police Administration Modernized By New Record System

Chief of Police F. A. Petrocchi of the Daly City police has submitted an itemized report of all activities of his department during the month of January, last, to the Board of Councilmen. Herebefore no such systematic record has been kept by the local police.

In a letter of transmittal to every member of the city council Chief Petrocchi said, in part, that "In an effort to reorganize the police department it has been necessary to modernize the entire record system."

He added that this new system . . . will enable my office to submit to you and to the people of Daly City a monthly statistical report. And "This monthly report will be used as an aid in personnel distribution and will eliminate wasteful operations which will, in turn, amount to a financial saving to the city."

Further, the letter states "The report will show crime tendencies and related conditions, also the effectiveness of the police department in coping with them. It will be of value to the police administrators as an up to the minute appraisal of police work and problems, including personnel, investigation results, traffic reports and a tabulation of the various services required of the present day police department."

Department Statistics
The total criminal arrests for violations of city ordinances in January this year amounted to 32. Penal violations totaled 18 and California vehicle violations, including drunk driving and car theft, eight.

The local police department accounted for property recovered valued at $2,795.00 in January. It collected $1,151.75 for licenses and permits during the same month. It served a total of 10 citations and subpoenas and 37 warrants.

The total traffic violations of city ordinances and the California vehicle code citations made by the local police totaled 425 during the first month of this year. Among these were 184 violations of the meter parking ordinance and 41 over-night parking. Violations of arterial stop laws amounted to 27.

The new report also lists every automobile accident location during the month of January. This, at a glance, indicates the places of greatest hazard for drivers and acts as a warning to speedsters.

The feasibility of enlarging the present courthouse facilities by building on the rear of the courthouse with a view of eventually eliminating entirely the outdated central section now housing the courts is under study following the order issued to the planning commission by the supervisors during the week.

Three-Story Addition
The tentative proposal is that one story would be added as soon as practicable to the addition now housing the registration department and the county clerk's office, while three stories would be erected on the parking lot adjacent to Marshall street.

It is further planned to eventually remove the original courthouse and replace this with a three-story building between the Broadway offices and the new rear structure.

The county supervisors asked that the planning commission study the needs of the county's office space for the next ten years, irrespective of the location of the offices.

A Duck Ducks Away -- To Webfoot State
When Mrs. Sam Sklavos, 95 Fairway drive, noticed a stray duck in her yard Tuesday, she called police to remove that member of the feathered family.

When Poundman Robert Silicani answered the summons and approached the webfooted creature it acted tame and somewhat coy. But when Mr. Silicani reached out for the duck it ducked—and flew away, probably to Oregon, where all webfeet belong.

Hospital Releasing Mrs. Vogel After Auto-Truck Wreck

Mrs. Marjorie Vogel, 31, of 70 Sheffield drive, Daly City, who was the most seriously injured in the auto-truck collision near the intersection of Junipero Serra boulevard and 91st avenue, Broadmoor, Tuesday evening, was expected to return to her home this evening, Thursday, February 14.

Mrs. Vogel suffered shock, concussion and bruises when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, Melvin, 33, was rammed in the rear by a stolen Walkup Drayage and Warehouse truck which was apparently out of control, according to Chief of Police Paul Schmidt of Broadmoor.

Cop Gives Chase
The accident was the culmination to a race between the stolen truck and Motorcycle Policeman Robert F. Mueller of San Francisco. The latter had noticed the truck cutting in and out of traffic at Alemany boulevard and Mission streets and gave chase. He reported later that the truck had tried to force him off the road.

When the stolen truck hit the Vogel car it boosted it forward about a hundred feet and then struck it again. The driver got away before Patrolman Mueller could get to the place of the accident.

Mr. Vogel, who suffered bruises and minor cuts, was treated at the local hospital and released.

TB RATE HERE SECOND HIGHEST IN COUNTY

Daly City has the second worst tuberculosis rate in San Mateo county, health authorities reported today. First is Redwood City.

The three year case rate, per population, in Daly City is 76.7. This compares with the average of 39.3 for the county. Redwood City has an 83.3 scoring.

No explanation was given for this high rate, although Dr. Harlin Wynns, chief of the county health and welfare department, said a complete investigation of the situation will begin immediately.

Neville Motors Outlines Outstanding Body Features On New 1952 Fords

Ford Coachcraft bodies are introduced to the public for the first time on the 1952 Ford passenger cars. They feature completely new all-steel structure and all-new styling, with curved one-piece windshields and rear windows.

Ford engineers designed the new bodies to obtain the maximum in rigidity and strength. Welded steel joints and new moldings around windows and windshields help seal out weather, dust and corrosion. The bodies also feature wide-opening doors.

Coachcraft bodies are available on all 18 Mainline, Customline and Crestline models, including three completely new station wagon and utility types—the two-door Ranch Wagon, the four-door Country Sedan and the four-door Country Squire.

Ford's styling identity can be observed in the lines of the hood and front end of the new cars, centering around a new triple-spinner, air-scoop grille arrangement. Body lines sweep backward from extended headlights along the hood and high fender line to the jet-tube taillight sections.

Big Story
The 1952 body engineering story centers around the new steel structure. Exterior sheet metal joints on the new bodies are welded into one-piece construction. They are soldered and metal-finished to provide a seamless appearance and to protect against weather, dust and corrosion.

Ford Coachcraft bodies also introduce center fueling to make the gasoline filler pipe equally accessible from either side of the cars. The filler pipe was moved from the luggage compartment to a position in the rear center of the car behind the license plate. This also eliminates the filler flap on the rear fender and adds usable luggage space.

Counter-balance mechanism on the hinges help to raise the hood and luggage compartment lid and to keep them open for servicing or loading. The deck lid hinges are side-mounted to provide more luggage space and to minimize interference with luggage.

Door Openings
Door openings, footings and upper pillar joints are rounded to increase body strength and for the best possible sealing of the rubber moldings around the doors.

New doors hinges permit two-way adjustment to fit door openings accurately. Locks for doors and the rear deck lid have been refined and safety locks for all rear doors are standard equipment.

Rubber moldings around the windshield, rear and quarter ventilation windows and around the rear windows were designed for weather-tight sealing. Window regulators are a new balanced cross-arm type.

Floor pans are welded to sills and rear wheelhouses to seal the structure, and several heavy gauge channel sections are welded across the floor pans to provide box-section rigidity.

Another structural feature is the welding of the one-piece dash and toe board to the cowl side panels to form a protective forward section of the body.

Visibility has been increased on all 1952 Ford cars by the narrowing and positioning of the front pillars and by use of more glass.

The one-piece windshields of the 1952 Ford sedans and coupes have 940 square inches of glass area and the curved rear windows have 978 square inches.

The total glass area for the Customline Tudor sedan is 3,297 square inches and the total for the Customline Fordor sedan is 3,211 square inches.

Another safety factor is the full-width defroster extending across the windshield's length. Redesigned wipers also cover a wide area of the windshield.
